Shel Silverstein, The Giving Tree

For the 2012-2013 yearbook, our theme is "Growing Together." Every week, we took a picture of two trees that are growing together on campus to show all of its changes throughout the year and to represent how we grow, adapt, change, mature, and learn together as the student body of Ames High. We then put this picture in the corner of every Week by Week page. So, make sure to watch for how the trees are adapting throughout the pages, just as we are simultaneously Growing Together as One.

2. City Siblings - In the name of diplomacy and exploration, Ames High students traveled through the Ames International Partner Cities Association to Ames' sister city in Koshu City, Japan.

1. Soon to be a Sooner - Unlike most high school seniors, senior Shaya Kellogg knows exactly what she plans on doing once she graduates Ames High; playing basketball for Oklahoma University. Kellogg verbally committed on August 14 to this Division 1 school to secure her spot as a Sooner in 2013.

2. The Kayaking Kid - Senior Paul Fritzell spent his summer differently than most high school students. He traveled to Alaska with Camp Manito-wish YMCA to explore the inside passage of Alaska by kayak. Fritzell was unable to shower during this 45 day trip, but found his natural body stench helped him in terms of catching salmon.

While most high school students spend their summer vacation sleeping, relaxing at the pool and hanging out with friends, 20 Ames High students and 3 teachers thought they'd spend the first portion of it a little differently. Teacher Tim Mooney took this group to Kiringa, Uganda for 3 weeks to help build a primary school there. When senior Claire Rogers wasn't helping mix muchanga (cement) or lay rocks, her favorite thing was to hang out with the children who they were building the school for. "It is so inspiring to see how happy they are with so few materialistic things" senior Bridget McFarland said. "It's really humbling and makes me thankful for all I have."

"Seeing the housing actually being build made all of the sweat and time put into it completely worth it. The food wasn't bad either. Rice and beans for life!" - senior Spencer Oh

Together We Begin

Summer comes to a close and school bells ring again. Another school year has begun, and the events are in full swing! The melodious sounds of Principal Spence Evans' voice float through the intercom as freshmen get used to their class schedules and seniors compare the amount of free periods they have with one another. The sound of the band marks the first football game of the year. Cheers from the crowd support the Little Cyclones in the first home game of the year against Southeast Polk. As the week progresses students get back into the flow of academics meet social life. Whether it's political activism, participating in extracurricular activities, music, or lunchtime frivolities, the kids of Ames High always find ways to blend tomfoolery with education.

Together We Scamper

All across Ames spaghetti production and sales are skyrocketing, and this can only mean one thing: Cross Country is back. Groggy runners are rolling out of bed at 6:30 to run miles and miles. Laces are being meticulously tightened on shoes literally worn to the sole. The 2012 season brings many new faces to the scene. The boys and girls teams both have many graduating senior leaders, but also many underclassmen ready to uphold the name.

"We have a great group of talented young women bursting with potential. I'm very excited to see where this team can go," Girls Coach Schmaltz said. For both teams, success is expected. Inexperience is no excuse. "To go where we want to go, it'll take heart and guts. That's what cross country is all about," Boys Coach Tim Mooney.

Together We Yell

There's a deafening roar as the loud speakers pump out Metallica's "Enter Sandman" and the Ames High football team enters the field. The students are decked out in their best orange and black clothes and some of the seniors even paint themselves to support their team. The cheerleaders come out full of spirit and pump up the crowd to energize the weary players on the field. At halftime, the marching band comes onto the field awes the crowd with its precision and 80's themed music.

Despite the energy and a hard fought game, Ames lost 27-37 to Marshalltown. Even a loss could not dampen the spirits of the student body, however, as they looked forward to the dance the following night.

Together We Create

This week, Mr. Todd's Environmental Science class emailed a survey to everyone in the school asking questions like, "What do you use the courtyard for? What changes would you like to see in the courtyard?" etc.

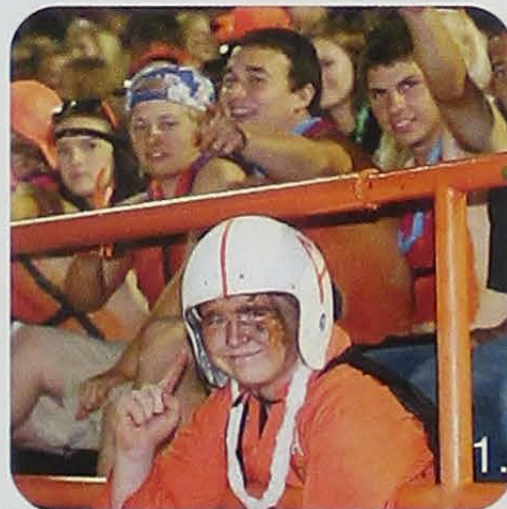

The class plans on renovating the courtyard to make it more environmentally friendly. "We're planting native plants and working on Cullinan's Corner - planting some flowers to make it look pretty," junior Nick Oppedal said.

Cullinan's Corner was created and dedicated in honor of Mr. Denny Cullinan, a psychology teacher who passed away from bladder cancer two years ago.

With the spreading buzz of the soon-to-be renovated courtyard, the students of Ames High are anxiously awaiting what will take the place of the "no trees, no art, no table" courtyard.

Together We Win

The wind is chilly and the first six weeks have come and gone more quickly than a falling leaf. As Autumn rolls in, the abrupt weather changes do little to mar the school's spirits. Through weather swings of rain and shine, students are eager to engage in fall activities. The end of football is weeks away and cross country has come to a close. Ames High's golf team had a strong finish while senior Dustin Atkinson landed second in state. The beginning of basketball and wrestling is just around the corner and ambitious athletes focus their energy on tryouts and practices. After recuperating during their three day weekend, students get ready to tackle the stress brought by the first six weeks of school while still finding time to hang out with friends and play some 4-square.

senior Dustin Atkinson

Q. and A. With Dustin Atkinson

'Fore' how long have you been Dustin' off the golf clubs?

"I have been golfing since the age of 12."

What was it like to go to a State Championship 3 times?

"Going to state 3 years in a row has been a really exciting experience. This year I was really nervous and excited, but I was hoping for a good finish."

What is your golfing pump-up song?

"This year before every meet the golf team would listen to 'The Next Episode' by Dr. Dre and Snoop Dogg. It lightened the mood of the team and relaxed us all."

Do you plan on golfing through college?

"As of right now I am not sure if I want to golf in college. It is a huge time commitment. I have received a few offers, but I haven't made my decision yet."

What has golf taught you about life?

"Golf has taught me that it doesn't matter how you perform on any given day; it's how you react to a performance, good or bad, that shapes how people will see you."

What is your pre-game ritual?

"Before every tournament I take 3 deep breaths and then step onto the first tee."

Why should someone join the D. A.?

"Because you don't choose the Harry Potter life, the Harry Potter life chooses YOU."

What are your future plans for this club?

"We hope to sponsor House tournaments,
Quidditch matches, debates, and movie watching parties."

What teacher most closely

What instrument do you play?

"I play the snare drum on the snare line, the line of snare drums."

How long have you been playing?

"I've been playing since I was in the fifth grade, but my mom says that I came out drumming."

Do you plan on playing in the future?

"I'll probably continue drumming for the rest of my life, but it may not be in another drum corps."

What are you going to miss most about the Ames High drum line?

"All the silly traditions that we have. From the prayer and the grill outs to funny hats during the homecoming parade. Oh and the Ewan Burger... Ewww."

Friday night prep football is treasured in Ames, in Iowa, and across the whole country. The confluence of tradition, music, competition, and socialization marks it as the perfect embodiment of the spirit of high school.

Together We Support

October is breast cancer awareness month, so Ames High did their part to show support for the cause. This week the school was decorated in all pink and students couldn't go anywhere without being reminded of the cause. For the football game on Friday at Johnston, the cheerleaders wore pink sweatshirts and used one pink pom. The football players sported pink shoe laces and, to top it off, every student who rode a pep bus was given a pink hat to show his or her spirit. The student section all dressed up in pink even if they didn't ride the pep bus. Even though Ames lost the game 24-62 that night, the students were still all excited that they were able to support and create awareness for this worthy cause.

Together We Take Action

October 21-27

Reggie's Sleepout is an annual Iowa Homeless Youth Center event held at Drake stadium. Each year nearly 1,500 people camp out in the football field and help eliminate homelessness among children. This year's event raised over $150,000.

SHEPH sent a group of 11 youth and 3 sponsors who later merged with a group from the Unitarian church to build its cardboard structure. It was a bitterly cold night, but the weather helped bring into focus the immediacy of the need.

"I slept under the stars so kids could reach them. I probably could have seen them also except for the stadium lights. I couldn't sleep," senior Paul Jasper said. Charity, entertainment and a night under the stars: all the markings of a worthwhile event.

Whether it be our #1 girl's swimming team, the Senior Senate blood drive, or even the way our students dress up for Halloween, Ames High students aim to exceed the expectations of a typical high school. Academic awards were given out at the Academic Ceremony for all Junior and Senior students who have a 3.5 GPA or higher. Our Ames High girl swimmers and divers dove for the gold. With their blend of talent, practice, and pure motivation, the swimmers were able to shatter school records and come out on top of the state for the third time in a row - which is a first in Ames High history.

Together We ★ Vote ★

Are you Red? Are you Blue? How about Green? As telemarketers call in preparation for a Presidential election just days away, Ames High students do their part by volunteering for their respective parties. Even teachers have found themselves engaging in the electioneering activities! (See the debate between Mooney and Zmolek on the opposite page.) Politics aside, the Little Cyclones keep their plates full, engaging in psychology experiments, supporting the hockey team, helping with the pond restoration, showing up Shakespeare in the drama department, and spending quality time with friends.

Bad Decision 2012

With the election winding down to its last few days, everyone is anxious to get their opinions heard. Teachers Mooney and Zmolek are especially excited to let everyone know their opinions as the two have announced their unofficial candidacy for president. The rivalry has reached a boiling point and both candidates have agreed to participate in a debate.

Mooney

Zmolek

Who would be your running mate?

"Bob Uetz, because he keeps me sane in an insane world."

"Mr. Uetz. He has a mustache. Plus, he's such a sweetie. But, if Mr. Sparkman had a mustache..."

Why should students vote for you?

"Well, in this either/or election, just consider the potentially disastrous consequences of voting for Zmolek."

"I'm the lesser of two evils. A world with Mooney in charge would be too beautiful, too wonderful and too hopeful. That's just absurd. Vote for me and I'll ensure you get none of that."

Care to talk smack about your opponent?

"We can't have a guy with a Czech name as our head of state. The Czech's don't even have good beer! Besides, Zmolek is my best choice to head my Secret Police Division."

"In Irish, the word 'Mooney' means lies. He fills the little children of this institution with falsities as he spews forth his putrid and vile propaganda of what he calls 'history.' He also clubs baby seals for sport. Seriously, he's a morally bankrupt shell of a man."

Together We Dance

Originally started as a fund-raiser co-sponsored by SHEPH and Hundredth Green-Butterfly, Tucheze is now a benefit dance for SHEPH's project of the year. "This year, we decided to divide the money we raise between multiple projects in Uganda, including the Mawagawa Lamp Project and a project to build houses," senior SHEPH leader Charlotte Mann said. "The idea behind Tucheze was to create a casual dance where people could just have a good time without all the drama and preparation that comes with a regular school dance. If we have to fund raise, we might as well make it fun!"

Overall the dance raised several hundred dollars for SHEPH, and had an amazing turnout. In the future, SHEPH hopes to increase the attendance numbers even more. Every year, students and teachers make memories at Tucheze that stand out from those made at other events. Although it may be impossible to top the excitement of seeing teacher Tim Mooney and principal Spence Evans show their moves on the dance floor, Tucheze is always a great experience for those who attend.

Together We Give Thanks

Thanksgiving 2012 was filled with friends, food, and family. Many Ames High students spent their break stuffing themselves with turkey and their grandma's famous pumpkin pie. Students were very anxious to leave school early on Wednesday to start their weekend.

Many students spent their friday shopping for great deals at Best Buy, JC Penny, and other big stores. Others even spent their Thanksgiving night shopping at Walmart and Target which opened at 8:00 and 9:00 PM.

Some spent the week before thanksgiving supporting the school by going to the hockey game or some spent their time enjoying music at a local concert.

No matter what you did, this week was full of thankfulness for friends, family, and food.

Together We Serenade

The annual Madrigal Dinners of the year two-thousand and twelve encompassed a cast surpassing fifty students to entertain the Ames community with old-English flair.

The Ames High Madrigal Singers are a select a cappella group of 28 students that audition early in the fall and rehearse a multitude of early mornings to prepare three dinner shows to celebrate the start of the holiday season. Entertainment for the guests includes chamber brass and orchestra ensembles, a royal harpist, a featured play, skits, and note-passing along with the singers' performance.

Dressed in period-style costumes, these students provide an annual treat to ear and eye for the community, and the singers continue their performances caroling throughout Ames in the following weeks.

Ames wrestlers battled hard this weekend at the Valley Invite and came home with a new piece of pride for their sport. Junior Zach Skarshaug explains how: "the hardest part of wrestling is pushing yourself - even when you think you have nothing left." Yet senior Nathan Twito adds how that is what makes wrestling so great, because "wrestling is character building, hard work and dedication." That hard work and dedication doesn't start at the tournaments, though. Ames High wrestlers practice everyday except Sundays. Tuesdays and Thursdays they have morning practice as well as afternoon practice. This totals an average of 15 hours a weeks of running, lifting, and wrestling. That hard work certainly paid off when Twito placed 2nd, along with seniors Zach Stuart and Sam Peterson, who placed 3rd, and sophomore Hank Swalla who came in at 4th place.

Together We Rock

Excitement filled the air as AHS entered the week of December 9th, and what a week it was. Friday brought with it the annual Battle of the Bands in which students from all walks of life and musical tastes came together to put on a rockin' show in the auditorium. The Battle of the Bands was hosted by senior Daniel DeLay along with glamorous AHS alumni and internet star, Leslie Hall. The crowd went wild rocking out to the music produced by the talented musicians of Ames High, and there wasn't a frown on any face when Leslie Hall's "Tight Pants/Body Rolls" hit the speakers. Of course the week didn't only revolve around Battle of the Bands. Whether they're moving on to exciting new units in class, cheering the basketball team onto victory, awaiting the much anticipated Hobbit movie, or just biding their time until winter break, Ames High students Play 2 Win.

Every year, as a cherished part of Winter Madness, the school holds a student vs. staff basketball game. The teachers get into the game just as much as the students, if not more, and it creates some fierce competition. This year's turnout was record-setting and raised a lot of money for the MICA foundation. The teachers won the game, bringing their streak to 4 consecutive years.

Winter madness is a week of activities coordinated by the Ames High student council. In honor of the Mayan doomsday prediction, this year's theme for winter madness is: "It's the End of the world as we know it, and we feel fine." All proceeds from the events were used to purchase Christmas gifts for needy families through the MICA foundation.

On Monday, the week of winter madness officially kicked off with a pajama day where students were encouraged to come to school dressed in their sweats or pajamas. On Monday night, there was a student vs. staff basketball game. The week continued with a hat day and ugly sweater day. Another activity included a quiz bowl showdown.

Due to two consecutive snow days right before break, the Thursday dodgeball tournament had to be rescheduled.

Together We Chill

Winter break is a time for relaxing. After having two snow days before break started, everyone was able to start their relaxation time early. Since teachers were not allowed to give homework or projects over break, this enabled students to relax even more and have more time to spend with family and friends. Over New Years, some people made resolutions to benefit themselves or the people that surround them, even though some of those people may break their resolution by the second week. As 2013 started, students prepared themselves to go back to school on January 3rd. Some studied and some just spent the time doing what they love or relaxing. However you spent it, winter break was a nice pause from school.

Together We Aim High

The dedicated students of Ames High dug their heels in and plowed their way through the excruciating time we call 'finals week' with a pizzazz unlike any other school.

"Finals are like going to the concession stand at the beach on a hot day. When you get near the front, you decide you want an ice cream sandwich, then Mr. Finals, the guy standing in front of you, buys the last one, sarcastically laughs, opens it, tosses out the wrapper, drops it on the ground, smashes it with his heel, and walks away chuckling," senior Chris Jenks said.

Through it all, the musical cast continued dedicating numerous hours to dancing, singing, and shouting in an effort to succeed in their endeavors in the arts as well as grades.

1. Ames boys swimmers cheer on their teammates for another splashing finish to a great meet.

Together We Sweat

While the temperatures outside were plummeting, activities at school were really heating up. With a home hockey game, pep band, home swim meet, polar bear running club, home basketball, and cheer practice, Ames High students proved that finals don't stop them from moving!

This week was a juggling act for many as they balanced sports, music, and academics. However, finals don't stop for anyone, and with winter break far behind them, AHS students buckled down to study...well, sort of. The good news was that students only had to focus on finals for a little bit before the new semester started.

What gets you moving?

Together We Fubilate

Lights. . . camera. . . dance! This year was one of the best winter formal dances Ames High students have ever claimed to have. Whether you were a freshman or a senior, you came decked out in your red carpet best and danced the night away. The dance lasted from seven to midnight. At eleven o'clock, all dancers gathered in the center of the dance floor to watch the coronation of the Winter Formal royalty. Claps and cheers resonated when Bridget McFarland and Justin Slotter were crowned as the princess and prince along with Gabby Hansen and Erick Estrada, who were crowned queen and king.

Freshman Angela Dunkin went full out for her first dance. She was decked out with her hair professionally done, a manicure, pedicure, and glitter-sparkling eyes.

Seniors Katie Upah and Taylor Palensky didn't go. They don't believe in winter.

Show Us Your Dance Moves!

Sophomore Hannah Eickholt straightened her hair with a poof at the top - but not a "Snookie Poof," she swears.

Freshman Emily Frisk didn't do anything before the dance, but her freshman friend Jaci Johnson had a party at Fuji before the dance and successfully had food thrown in her face without ruining her makeup.

Junior Shuai Pan's favorite dance apparel is a black suit and a black tie. He keeps it nice and classy.

Together We Applaud

The sounds of the piano lingered in the air, as the curtain closed after the final number. Was AHS hosting a cabaret? Nay, it was in fact a showing of the AHS rendition of The Pajama Game, A musical adventure dealing with the very real problems of labor unions in the 50's while incorporating a variety of musical numbers such as "Hernando's Hideaway," "Steam Heat," and "Hey There." If AHS students' hands weren't sore enough applauding the fine thespians and techies from this production, there was much more cheering to be had at the hockey game and iBall tournament. If you're tired of cheering for other people, why not yourself? AHS's Feminist Club reminds everyone why they're beautiful on the inside by preparing encouraging bathroom signs. <3

Spot Light:

An interview with AHS drama director Steven Woolery about The Pajama Game.

Plot and Style? : "A fun, entertaining musical that had much to say about several serious social and business issues that were present then, and still exist today. All the songs drew from different musical styles which kept it from being repetitive. We tried to be true to the show's spirit."

Costs? : "Up front cost to obtain the rights, rental, and security alone was $3,125. Then backdrop rental, lumber, paint, hardware, costumes, and all the various props were an additional $4,000 plus."

Cast? : "Cast members totaled 42. However, there were an additional 35 people who worked on the show, including adults, lights and sound, shift crew, set workers, and costumes and make up."

February 3-9

Nothing's better than the Megabowl! A big portion of the senior class headed over to the basketball game against Ottumwa on Tuesday night in their orange out to support the girls and boys games for senior night. The supporters who went to the game were encouraged to bring newspapers and pretend to read until the 10th point of our team was made. The boys basketball team did a great job and hit the 10th point mark at about 3 minutes into the game. Even the pep band brought their best spirit and cheered on the game. The girls won their game 56-13, and the boys won 75-30. The drill team performed at half time with a routine that was flawless. Everyone was excited to be there, cheering as loud as they could! Most seniors made this night very memorable for their last home basketball game of their high school careers.

Together We Support

Even though the Little Cyclone hockey team was sad to bid adieu to an integral group of players on senior night, the ice arena was packed with fans and a forest of orange and black boom-wackers roaring support. Varsity took the ice bedecked in pink-accented gear and jerseys that read "Quinn's Quest" to commemorate the young prospective player the Ames community lost to cancer last year, and overall made an honorable showing against the Des Moines Oak Leaves.

Together We Bleed

Nearly 4.5 million people would die each year if it were not for blood donations. Once again, Ames High did their part in saving lives. Senior Senate completely organized and staffed the AHS Blood Drive. Students came together to donate a total of 52 whole blood and 11 double red cells. 94 people registered to donate and 63 people were actually able to donate.

As students were excused from classes to sacrifice their blood, some passed out, let out squirms, and showed the world their face of terror. At the end they were able to get the prize of all prizes: juice and cookies. Ultimately, though, the true prize was knowing that a small sacrifice on their part could lead to a saved life down the road.

If senior night wasn't enough to turn a gym into a full house of high spirited teenagers, then maybe free admission, free pizza, a white-out student section and a Harlem Shake performance got you shouting and chanting for Ames High boys basketball.

The Harlem Shake is a hot new 31 second viral fad. It starts with just one mellow dancer. Then, after the drop of the song halfway in, everyone goes crazy.

The very first Student Council Dodgeball Tournament was a hit! Sixteen teams registered and competed. Of course, charity was the biggest winner.

Each year, students, teachers, families, and musicians come together to raise awareness and money to eliminate poverty and hunger throughout the world. During the Ames High Hunger Banquet, bands were playing and silent auctions were bidding, while most people sat cross-legged on a coffee bag picking at their bowl of rice for dinner. The money raised from the event will go to the dozens of students who will venture to Uganda this summer. There, they will build additions to schools that Ames High has previously built.

As first world citizens with clean water, air, a good education, and food in our cupboards, it is easy to think the issues we see around the world are too difficult to change. The Hunger Banquet reminds us that we can make a difference. So with every action we make, let us remember that we are not the only ones on this earth, that we should be thankful, and that it is our responsibility to give back.

Together We Score

As the dreary month of February came to a close and March began, students of AHS looked to brighter days and fairer weather. OH WAIT, JK! Yet even the never-ending winter couldn't dampen our students' hearts. With their sights locked on the approaching spring break, AHS students had to preoccupy themselves with activities to keep them from losing all focus. Luckily the iBall championship, along with coffee house, to name a few activities, provided the perfect distraction for restless students. After an intense iBall season, the championship games separated the princes from the paupers. Truly, iCandy, Who Let The Cats Out, and The Octagon played to win. For those not involved in iBall, entertainment could be found in coffee house where students showed off their written, spoken, and musical talent.

Together We Dance

The Iowa Youth Ballet are really busy rehearsing pieces for the recital June 8th at 3 PM. The dancers spent many hours practicing at the Robert Thomas Dance Center. The pieces they were rehearsing the day the pictures were taken were "Emperor Waltz," "Be Still," and "Piaf Songs." The dancers have spent most Saturday practicing the recital over and over again until it was perfect. Some of these dancers were junior Laura Graveline, Sydney DeGeest Lupe MacIntosh, Kate Bergin, and Margie Fernando, seniors Liz Mullen and Leanna Mullen, and sophomore Allie Mullen. "Never get lost in a country that doesn't speak English," Junior Cole Anderson advises, with the voice of personal experience. He, and about 15 other Ames High students, traveled with the Ames High group for this year's trip to Spain through the high school Spanish department.

"I got lost twice and had to run so I didn't miss the bus, but I bought my sword!" laughed Melissa Frana, recounting the excitement of the trip.

They spent the majority of their time abroad with host families in Segovia while seeing the sights. The fifteen students posed in front of historic landmarks and practiced their Spanish as they toured.

Sweet. Sugar. Candyman. That was the theme for the drill team spring show this year. The drill team branched out to new audiences. One sweet dance included girls from different elementary schools. Another dance included all of the parents. The girls frolicked on the gym floor with grace while the all male drill team entertained the audience with their jive. It was quite a show. This was also the drill team's Senior Night. Many fond memories have been made through drill team. It's not just dancing, its an activity to meet up with friends and have a good time.

Together We Play

We played instruments, games, and anything else to fill up the busy spring. This week was full of busy activities from going to state with track to marching in the VEISHA parade. Numerous art students took a break from their semester to travel to Chicago for two days and visit museums. On Monday, the boys soccer team traveled to Urbandale and won 3-1. The next Friday, many students ventured out in the cold to support the next boys game against Des Moines East with a win of 3-2. The Ames High band started off the spring with marching on Saturday in the VEISHA parade.

Together We Go Green

The Ames community has long advocated the protection of the Earth and its natural resources. To promote environmental consciousness and help minimize Ames High's destructive chemical output, students were encouraged to support Green Week by riding their bikes to school and contributing to an outdoor coffee house, among various other activities. "I rode my bike until I crashed it, helped garden club on a work day, and picked up trash with 100th Green Butterfly," senior Danny Schmidt said. "Green Week got a lot of people thinking about the environment, and it made all the projects more effective."

At the end of the week, the choir's St. Louis tour was a resounding success, including a day at Six Flags, trips to City Museum and the Arch, and fancy food, along with the musical incentives of a workshop with a SLU professor of vocal music, and the chance to perform in the St. Louis Basilica. Reflecting on having the chance to sing in such a grandiose building, senior Jotham Polashek laughs, "The acoustics are fantastic; it's all about that nine second ring!"

Together We Do The Charleston

The Gatsby Party this year was the bee's knees! As dames and gents alike got all dolled up, sheiks and shebas arrived to the newly fashioned, swanky English hallway. Some people who had been to the Gatsby Party in previous years helped set the mood for the afternoon. The "drunken" shouts of zozzled junior Jamie Steyer could be heard throughout the entire wing. The senior helpers acted as bouncers, card dealers, and security. The Jazzy Lads (a jazz combo consisting of seniors Daniel Vigil, Paul Jasper, and Amos Hart, juniors Zach Skarshaug and Riley Dobyns, and sophomore Patrick Jasper) provided live music for the event. There were many activities such as learning the Charleston, watching a movie, gambling, and getting into the exclusive speakeasy. The Model T club arrived and gave students rides in the struggle buggies of their jalopies.

This year, junior Zach Withers was announced to be Gatsby. A total of 6 students found this out before it was announced.

Together We Roll

As April ended and May began, AHS students were hoping for some May flowers after a long winter. Gatsby fervor carried over from the Gatsby Party as the new movie premiered. Students dressed once again in ritzy 1920's costumes and relived the book on the silver screen.

Open house season began and for the next couple of weeks students stopped by their senior friends' open houses to write them congratulatory notes and to eat oh so much food.

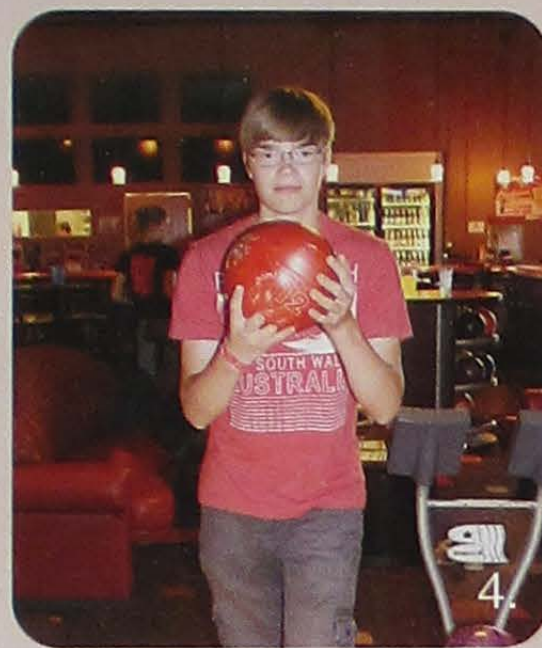

There was so much going on that AP tests quickly sneaked up on students. The AP, or Advanced Placement, exams give college credit to students who score between a 3 and a 5 on a 5-point scale. Although AP testing season may be stressful, some students have shared their insight with us on how to deal with it. The stress is definitely worth the reward of cheap college credit.

Together We Be Fabulous

This week simultaneously allowed students to eat insects during lunch and to dress up in the most ridiculous and fashionable outfits imaginable. Wednesday was both the annual "Phashun Vensday" and the first ever "edible insect day" put on by Mr. Todd's environmental science classes.

"I spilled meal worms all over my super phasionable dress, but it made it all the more phasionable," senior Sadie Taylor said.

"It's been a great four years at Ames High. Great teachers, great friends...I'm so proud to have been a Little Cyclone!"

~senior Ashley Meyn

The seniors' last day passed in a blur of color, literally. Donning their tie-dye shirts and pockets full of glitter, the seniors passed through their classes with a bittersweet feeling in their gut. Smiles, hugs, and shaving cream was exchanged and no surface went unglittered. As the last bell rang, the seniors rushed outside the school with shouts, confetti, and water balloons. FREEDOM...well except for all the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen. There was still more to do, however, as the senior picnic and Baccalaureate rounded off the year before commencement.

What we have to do... is to find a way to celebrate our diversity and debate our differences without fracturing our communities."

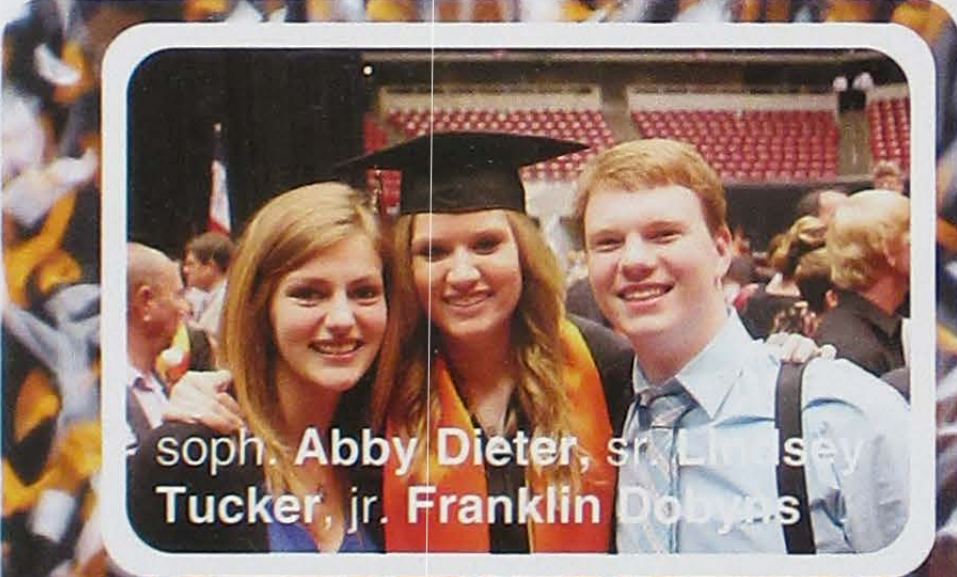

~Hillary Clinton

May 26 - June 4

This is the moment they've all been waiting for: Ames High seniors, donned in their black robes, orange sashes, and caps, filed through Hilton Coliseum, passing by the teachers who have supported them through their years at Ames High. They took their seats and gazed about at families and friends as the band played "Pomp and Circumstance." When the ceremony began, senior Sadie Taylor delivered the welcome, followed by other speakers. Seniors Ann Ku and Daniel DeLay then gave their original addresses and senior Emily Linch recited the Desiderata. When all had walked across the stage to receive a handshake and their diploma, class presidents Nolan Dickson, Bridget McFarland, and Marios Tringides led the class of 2013 in moving their tassels from the left to the right side of their caps. Confetti filled the air and caps went flying. congratulations to the Class of 2013.

"You have brains in your head. You have feet in your shoes.
You can steer yourself in any direction you choose. You're on your own.
And you know what you know. You are the guy who'll decide where to go."
~Dr. Seuss, "Oh, the Places You'll Go!"

Row 1: seniors Stephanie Johnson and Leigh Ann Honzatko
Row 2: seniors Danny Schmidt, Rachel Dieter, Hannah Bonestroo, Lindsey Tucker, Iris Brenner, Katie Jurenka, Charlotte Mann, and Chris Jenks.
Row 3: seniors Aaron Thompson and Brett Weiss
Row 4: seniors Daniel Vigil, Daniel Delay, Alex Qin, Christopher Merchant, Tommy Pitcher, Marios Tringides, Paul Jasper, Mariah Griffith, and Mr. Mooney with workers and parents.

1. seniors Rachel Dieter, Iris Brenner, Stephanie Johnson, and Chris Jenks reflect on the trip while looking on to the sunset over the Nile.

2. seniors Aaron Thompson, Hannah Bonestroo, and Charlotte Mann admire Daniel Vigil's "pop a squat" technique.

3. seniors Chris Merchant, Marios Tringides, and Daniel Delay rest after the long travel time to Africa.

4. seniors Iris Brenner, and Alex Qin crop-top it to keep cool in Jinja.

5. senior Brett Weiss gets some love from Jjuuko, the bus driver's daughter.

6. seniors Rachel Dieter, Daniel Vigil, and Stephanie Johnson learn the true meaning of "Abanabanji!"

A Word to the Wise . . . "The trip to Uganda was one of my best high school experiences and witnessing the Ugandan culture was very informative. Also chillin with Jamaican Spice." ~ senior Marios Tringides senior Mariah Griffith carts a heavy wheel-barrow of muchanga, cement, stones and sand.

Uganda 2013

*Together We

The group wades in the source of the longest river in the world, the Nile, during an hour long boat tour of the river. The tour guide, Mr. Mooney, pointed out many local birds and monkeys.

Twenty newly-graduated Ames High seniors gazed about in awe as they first set foot in Entebbe, Uganda after four long flights and an eight-hour layover in London. They had twenty one days of hard labor, sight-seeing, and learning ahead of them. Based in the beloved Jenny hotel in Iganga, the dirtiest town in Uganda, the group built the floors of a dormitory for a primary school in rural Mawagala and in Jiringa. They got to visit previous projects in Tororo and Melaba along with the stunning waterfalls at Sipi, tourist town of Jinja, and the capital of Uganda, Kampala. At each city or town, the students learned how to adapt to the friendly, warm-climate culture and interact with local people, regardless of the language barrier. Everyone in the group agreed that it was an extraordinary learning experience and they imagine returning to Africa in the future.

"This isn't Kansas anymore, Todo."
~ Muchibi (Mr. Mooney)

"Coming together is

"I walked over to the hill where we used to go and sled. There were a lot of little kids there. I watched them flying. Doing jumps and having races. And I thought that all those little kids are going to grow up someday. And all of those little kids are going to do the things that we do. And they will all kiss someone someday. But for now, sledding is enough. I think it would be great if sledding were always enough, but it isn't."

the field.

Thank you!
Luv, Mom & Dad

Gabby Hansen

"You can kiss your family and friends good-bye and put miles between you, but at the same time you carry them with you in your heart, your mind,
your stomach,
because you do not just live in a world but a world lives in you."

Justin Klinkel

Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things that you didn't do than by the ones you did do. So throw off the bowlines. Sail away from the safe harbor. Catch the trade winds in your sails. Explore.

Dream. Discover.

-- Mark Twain

We are so proud of you.

Love, Mom and Dad

2012 Football Team
Captains

Jennifer Shulman

Congratulations, Jennifer!

May you continue to shine over the next 18 years as brightly as you have shone for the past 18 years! We are so proud of you.

Love,
Mom, Dad,
and Mitchell

Tara Sivaskandan

Dear Chittu,

We can't believe how these 18 years have flown by. It seemed like yesterday that you were born in Marshalltown. Life has taken you all over the world from M'town to Tokyo to Singapore to Ames and now to Cal, Berkeley.

We will miss your vivaciousness and exuberance at home. Good Luck in Berkeley!

God Bless!

Mommy, Daddy, Grandpa, Grandma,
Sandy, and Hari
